KILBANE IS THE WINNER

Easily Beats Frankie Burns in Fast Ten-Round Bout

New York, May 15.—Johnny Kilbane of Cleveland, featherweight champion, outboxed Frankie Burns of Jersey City, in a fast 10-round bout here last night.

At the ringside Kilbane weighed 122 1/2 and Burns 122 pounds.

Burns had the better of the first and fifth rounds, otherwise it was all Kilbane. Burns used only his left, while Kilbane used both hands to body and head with telling effect. The champion's footwork enabled him to evade several well aimed blows and by side-stepping and ducking Kilbane made Burns miss repeatedly.

In the third round Kilbane landed several lefts to the face and a hard right uppercut which drew blood from Burns' mouth. Burns kept putting efforts to the stomach, but the blows did not seem to effect Kilbane.

There was a fast mixup here, with he honors in Kilbane's favor. They exchanged lefts to the head in the eighth and Kilbane gave an exhibition of clever blocking until another mixup occurred.

The champion was fast in the ninth, at the close of which Burns was bleeding from the left eye. Kilbane used his man in the tenth, sending lefts and rights to the head, trying for knockout. Burns took his punishment bravely and landed several left and jabs. Then he tried to mix it, but Kilbane beat him back with rights and lefts to the face, and a right hook to the jaw. They were fighting hard at the bell, with Kilbane landing more blows to one.

After the battle Kilbane did not show a mark, while Burns' face was severely cut.

GOOD GAME AT GREAT FALLS.

The pennant winners won their first game of the series with Helena on the Great Falls field Tuesday afternoon by a score of 3 to 2. The score was made by a bunch of hitting at a critical time. Shannon in the second passed Murphy and Misso, gave Huelman a hit to first base and then Tour singled, driving in the three runs that won the game.

Helena's score in the first inning was gathered when Thompson doubled to center and Hester ran into Shannon near the plate on Menges' bunt. Killilay got a triple and Quigley drove out a two-bagger, which showed the second point over. Shannon distinguished himself by catching two "impossible" fouls. The first ball was pitched over the plate by Mayor Speer and caught by Dan Tracy, president of the Great Falls club. The attendance was 2,500.

OGDEN NOW AT TAIL END

McCloskey's men lost the game with Butte Tuesday afternoon and were sent to the cellar by a combination of circumstances. One little detail was overlooked by the local manager. He failed to tell Umpire Wright the ground rules. Last week the diamond was changed somewhat, and in the shakeup it was decided that thereafter a hit over the scorecard should net a runner but two sacks. Umpire Wright wasn't informed of that fact when he went on the field Monday, so when Whaling knocked the ball over the board with two men on bases he allowed a home run on the drive, and Whaling chased two base runners in ahead of him. The game ended with a score of 9 to 6. Without the home run the score would have been a tie. Manager McCloskey was benched at one stage of the game for getting too close to the line while coaching.

Jensen went in to pitch for the locals at the start, but the Miners batted him all over the field, and he was replaced by Warren, who proved to be a find. Warren fanned eight men in short order, and the hits that Butte got after he went in didn't cut much ice. It is a good guess that the locals would have won the game if Warren had pitched from the beginning. Maloney, who was on the mound until the locals had three hits, two sacks and later a couple of runs, but he wasn't so easy to find after that.

SKYSCRAPERS DEFEAT MISSOULA

Dick Cooley's Sky Scrapers won the first game of their series with the Missoula top-notchers Tuesday afternoon, the score being 10 to 5, and the result being due, to some extent, to the fact that Manager Blankenship was banished from the park early in the game, and was consequently unable to direct the work of his men during the remainder of the game. It is also intimated that Umpire "Speck" Hurlburt had a bad day on balls and strikes. It is even alleged that at one time after a batter had struck at a ball the umpire called it a ball. But neither team was robbed, and the battle was a good one.

Blankenship's men got a run in the first, and gave the Salt Lake fans a chill. Then Salt Lake made three points, but in the fifth the Missoula men chased in three more runs, and the fans got real nervous. Heinle Spencer settled the dispute, however, by batting the ball clear over the right field fence with two Salt Lake men on the bases. Dressman for Salt Lake and Bush for Missoula pitched very creditable ball.

FRENCHMEN ARE GAME FIGHTERS

Ten years ago the Frenchman was still supposed to be physically and morally incapable of learning to "fight like a Christian" (to quote the quaint phrase used by a worthy of the old prize ring), and when a little later the box began to be cultivated in Paris it was possible for the foreigner to contemplate the first products of the new cult with mingled amusement and amazement. Yet there was no reason in the nature of things why a race which had always excelled in the art of the sword should not also distinguish itself in the ring. The characteristic qualities of the successful fencer—fine footwork, accurate timing, the ability to judge distance, the harmony of hand and eye, and a reserve of nervous energy—are equally valuable in the modern game of boxing, while the compact physique of the round-headed, short-necked French athlete and his unconquerable courage obviously provided him with the capacity of withstanding punishment.

It was soon evident that the deficiencies of the first French boxers were merely the result of a lack of scientific training. As to their possession of the physical and moral stamina (there is really no such thing as merely physical courage) known as a "bottom spirit" to the old-fashioned pugilist, there could be no doubt whatever. They could endure an intolerable deal of pounding; as a rule it required a knockout to extinguish the smile which they wore on entering the ring.

American boxers' invasion of Paris provided the expert teaching required, and the result is seen today in the appearance of a group of skillful and hard-hitting French pugilists whose style is in most cases a blend of American and English methods. A few of them adopt the so-called American crouch, which, as the annals of the old prize ring clearly show, is actually of English origin. But the best of them can only be called "Americanized" in the sense that they attack in two planes, paying as much attention to an opponent's body as to his head, whereas the point of the chin is the chief objective of attack with nearly all English boxers. All, or nearly all, of them have a "punch." This is a striking proof that the French style is excellent in an essential point which is too often ignored by English teachers of boxing. The faculty of hitting hard is not an inexplicable gift of the gods; it is the result of proper balancing of the body which admits of the constant use of leg-drive, which counts for as much in boxing as in rowing.

WANT BENDER FOR PHYSICAL DIRECTOR

Pullman, Wash., May 15.—At a meeting of the board of regents of Washington state college held last week John R. Bender, formerly physical director and coach at W. S. C., who took a master's degree in modern languages while here, was offered the position of athletic director and graduate manager of athletics for the college for the 1912-1913 season.

This offer was decided upon and made at a meeting of the board of regents and the acting president, O. L. Waller.

Notice was immediately sent to Bender at St. Louis and it is expected that he will accept the position, as it was only a few days ago that he wrote the board asking as to their plans and stating that he desired to know at once, as he had been asked to sign a three-year contract at St. Louis.

Former Coach Osthoff expects to enter the engineering business, and in case Coach Bender returns next fall he will be given charge of the basketball five and act as physical director, while Bender takes the baseball and football.

Mr. Bender is well known in the northwest for his work with the football and baseball teams of the college in 1906-07 and 1907-08. He played professional baseball for a year or more after leaving the W. S. C. four years ago, after which he coached the Haskell Indians for a year, and then signed up for three years with the University of St. Louis.

At St. Louis his success and popularity earned him the sobriquet of "Billikens Bender," by which name he is known in intercollegiate athletic circles throughout the middle west. Bender has the unusual record of having never coached an unsuccessful team.

O'LEARY ARRIVED WITH ONE BOUND

From a messenger boy's uniform to that of a major league club all in one afternoon was the lightning change made by Charles O'Leary, the Tigra veteran utility man and the leading hitter in the league of good fellows.

O'Leary had played ball around the lots in Chicago all his life, and had distinguished himself as the star of the Mandel Brothers' nine. One afternoon in 1900 he was sent out to the White Sox park when the South Side team was new in Chicago. It happened the starter, Shugart, had been injured and the club was not provided with a capable man to take his place. The Sox really were in desperate straits and hardly knew how they would fill their lineup until somebody who knew Charlie spied him and said:

"There is a kid who can play the infield, give him a chance."

The manager asked O'Leary if he thought he could fill the bill, and "Dip," who is willing to take a chance on almost anything, replied that the job was made to order for him. They dug up a uniform for the boy, then but 17, and he doffed his messenger's togs forever.

He made good from the jump, and might have finished the season with the Sox if he hadn't sustained a broken arm as a result of stopping one of Rubo Waddell's wild ones with his person.

O'Leary went to Des Moines of the Western league the next season and played with that club several years going to Detroit in 1904.

The White Sox won the pennant the year he was with them, and his fine playing was responsible in a large measure for this success. Comiskey's reason for letting "Dip" go the next season was that he had an idea the youngster would be a better ball player if given a chance to gain some minor league experience. "The Old Roman" never has forgotten how Charlie helped his club out in a pinch, and today is one of the little Tigra's best friends in the game.
